

THIS COUNT WANTED

Queer Record of Andor Festetics Now Sought Here.

(Copyright, 1913, by the Brentwood Company.)

Count Andor Festetics, a familiar figure in American society in Paris, in the South of France and in the British metropolis, who is "wanted" by the London police and for whose arrest a warrant has been issued in connection with a conspiracy to defraud a Dr. Hans Thorsch of $15,000, is believed to have arrived here under an assumed name about four weeks ago. He is by no means a stranger to the London police. In the summer of 1909 he was arrested in London and brought up at the Bow Street Police Court on an extradition warrant, on a charge of theft of jewelry perpetrated at Brussels.

The prosecutor was a well known Brussels jeweler of the name of Sterck, who, having on sale a pair of emerald earrings that had formed part of the treasure of Duke Charles of Brunswick, popularly known as the "Diamond Duke," had been induced by an individual of the name of Jacques de Ville (alias William Beck, a well-known Anglo-American convict, who represented himself as the secretary of Count Andor Festetics, to submit them to his employer. The jeweler took them to the hotel where Festetics was stopping and showed them to the count, who declared that he would be glad to purchase them for $5,000 francs, and suggested that they should be left in a sealed package for several days with the jeweler, since he, the count, had to run over to England for a week or so, and would take the gems and pay for them on his return.

The jeweler was much pleased with the transaction, but on the following day it suddenly struck him that the sealed package was somewhat lighter than it ought to be. Accordingly, he took it upon himself to break the seals, and to open it, in the presence of his lawyer, and found therein, not the earrings, but four lumps of sugar, which had been hastily substituted at the hotel while his attention was momentarily diverted.

The matter was at once placed in the hands of the police. Count Andor Festetics and Jacques de Ville, who was his confederate, were traced to London, where it was found that the count had pawned the jewels for $1,000. Needless to add that both men were speedily arrested and Andor Festetics was held at the Bow Street Police Court on $20,000 bail, which was furnished by his long-suffering father, who makes his home at Wiesbaden. His father in the end indemnified the pawnbroker, secured the return of the earrings to the jeweler at Brussels, paying him a very handsome sum by way of compensation for all the trouble and annoyance to which he had been put in the matter, and in this way obtained a withdrawal of the charges.

Last summer his name figured in the Bankruptcy Court in London, with liabilities of about $50,000 and assets of $8 and some cents. Through counsel he ascribed his debts to losses at cards, on the Stock Exchange, particularly in speculation in Union Pacific Railroad and Rubber shares. But he failed to put in a personal appearance in court, owing to alleged illness, and so eventually was posted as an absconding bankrupt.

The count, who is a tall, blond man of about thirty-four, must not be confounded with the count, who is the director of all the crown and state theatres of Hungary and as such a high government official. Young Andor Festetics is one of his nephews, and has never held any government office, position at court or commission in the army.

Warning to Stamp Collectors.

Philatelists will do well to take immediate steps to obtain specimens of the new Russian postage stamps issued in connection with the celebration of the centenary of Romanoff rule. For they are about to be withdrawn, and will soon become as scarce as hen's teeth. The reason for this is a curious one. Difficulties have arisen owing to the fact that the postoffice officials throughout the provinces, and even in Moscow and St. Petersburg, are afraid to impress the cancellation mark and date upon the stamps on the ground that by thus obliterating or defacing the portrait of their sovereign they are rendering themselves guilty not only of an act of lese majesty, but even of sacrilege, wholly repugnant to their ideas. For these new stamps bear the effigies of Emperor Nicholas, and also of several of his Romanoff predecessors on the throne.

In taking this view the postoffice authorities are indorsed by the clergy and the prelates of the state church of Russia. Twenty of the principal archbishops having forwarded to the Holy Synod at St. Petersburg a strongly worded protest against the use of the imperial portraits on the new tercentenary postage stamps, on the ground that it is a "degradation of the august dignity and sanctity of the reigning sovereign and an offense to the sacred memory of his illustrious predecessors."

When one reflects that in England and in most of the monarchical countries of Europe the defacement of current coin bearing the effigy of the sovereign constitutes not only a misdemeanor, but even a felony, it becomes easy to understand the attitude of the Russian postoffice officials. Practically, I would say that these Russian laws were instituted to prevent among other things, too enterprising tradesmen from stamping their own names, or that of their wares, on the coin of the realm. But, so far as I know, this is the first time that any difficulty has occurred in connection with postage stamps, where, instead of being against the law, the cancellation through defacement is absolutely necessary to prevent fraud. MARQUISE DE FONTENAY.

FROM JAPAN TO SEE MUSEUM

Dr. Jimbo Says Visit Is Necessary to Scientific Education.

Dr. Kotora Jimbo, professor of mineralogy in the University of Tokyo, arrived here yesterday on the Red Star liner Kronland from the American Museum of Natural History.

The museum, he said, is known all over the world. Scientists everywhere, he declared, considered a visit to the museum necessary to a scientific education.

After studying the exhibits for several weeks Dr. Jimbo will visit the Columbia School of Mines.

JEWISH EDITOR ARRIVES.

Nabum Sokolow, a Jewish editor, who is to lecture under the auspices of the American Federation of American Zionists, arrived here yesterday from Bremen in the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. His first lecture here will be in Carnegie Hall March 15.

MRS. JAMES R. BUCHANAN.
Whose wedding took place yesterday.

WED IN BOWER OF PALMS

James R. Buchanan Marries Miss Rosalie M. Smith.

Miss Rosalie M. Smith was married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to James Roderick Buchanan at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Duthill Smith, No. 213 Madison avenue. The house was decorated with palms and cut flowers, and at one end of the drawing room a prie-dieu was arranged before a temporary altar formed of palms.

The bride was given away by her father. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Herbert Wheeler. Charles Buchanan served as his brother's best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. William H. Vibbert. A large reception followed.

AMERICAN PLAY WELCOMED

"Bought and Paid For" Well Received in London.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)
London, March 13.—As another evidence of American theatrical invasion London gave Allan Aynesworth's production of George Broadhurst's "Bought and Paid For" a fine reception at the New Theatre to-night. Mr. Broadhurst was called on for a speech at the end of the play, and the performance was constantly interrupted by applause.

Frank Craven, as James Gilley, made as big a hit here as in New York. The audience was always on the qui vive for his every move and word. He took splendidly. Gino Kim, as Oku, was another favorite. Mr. Aynesworth played Robert Stafford, and Alexandra Carlisle took the part of Virginia Blaine. Both gave excellent performances.

The play has every appearance of a long and successful run.

PULITZER GIFT WITHHELD

$500,000 for Philharmonic Depends on Report.

It was learned yesterday that the $500,000 left in the will of Joseph Pulitzer to the Philharmonic Society had not been turned over to the society.

According to George L. Rives, one of the Pulitzer executors, the executors are awaiting the report of investigators, who are determining whether or not the society has complied with Mr. Pulitzer's conditions.

"In Mr. Pulitzer's will," said Mr. Rives, "it was provided that $500,000 should go to the Philharmonic if the society obtained, among other things, one thousand members paying dues. This, the society says, has been accomplished. When, however, it applied to the Surrogate for an order to turn the money over, he refused to do so until the executors were sure all requirements had been met.

"We have therefore instituted an investigation to discover whether these requirements have been met, and nothing can be done until we have a report from our investigators. The investigators have not yet reported."

Mrs. George R. Sheldon, who is one of the Philharmonic guarantors, said that the investigation was a mere matter of routine and that the society would soon receive the report.

"We have now nearly eleven hundred members paying dues," said Mrs. Sheldon, "and all of Mr. Pulitzer's conditions have been complied with. Mr. Rives is right in having an investigation, but it is only a matter of form. We will shortly receive the money."

FREMSTAD AS GIULIETTA

Mme. Duchene Taken Ill Suddenly When Ready for Opera.

Owing to the sudden indisposition of Mme. Maria Duchene, who became ill just as she was about to start from her home for the opera, Mme. Fremstad took her place as Giulietta at last night's performance of "The Tales of Hoffmann" at the Metropolitan.

Mme. Duchene's name was on the programme, and William J. Gurd, the company's press representative, made the announcement of the change before the curtain after the first act. Otherwise the cast was as usual with Mmes. Hempel, Lilli and Maubourg, and MM. Jörn, Dohr, Gilly and Rothier. Polanco conducted.

THE OLIVE MEAD QUARTET

Mr. Consolo Lends His Assistance in Concert.

Miss Olive Mead, as she must remain in music, where it would be a pity to miss her simply because she is becoming a Miss Green, and her companions played quartets by Mozart in C and D major, and on E flat major in Rumbold Hall last night, and with Mr. Consolo, Brahms' quintet in F minor (Op. 33). There was a delightful refinement in the affair reflected in the appearance and performance of the players, as well as the character and reverent attitude of the audience, composed chiefly, it would seem, of patrons of the Knickerbocker, which is as high a tribute as can be paid to any audience in New York, and, by the same token, to the performers. All the music was received with enthusiastic evidences of favor and approval.

SYNDICATE IN FILM FIELD

Klaw & Erlanger Plan Huge Picture Venture.

TO BEGIN IN SEPTEMBER

Houses Throughout the U. S. and Canada Will Be Included for Circuit.

Reports that Klaw & Erlanger were going into the moving picture business on a very large scale took definite form in an announcement issued yesterday by that firm.

One of the largest studios in the country will be built for the manufacture of the films, which will be placed on exhibition early in September. By means of these films the managers will exploit the plays in which they are interested.

A corporation is to be formed, which will be known as the Protective Amusement Company, and will include A. H. Woods and others. It is the purpose of the organization to produce its own films, which are to be leased or rented to a limited number of motion picture theatres throughout the United States and Canada. For this purpose contracts will be made in various cities, by which certain theatres will have exclusive right to these pictures. In the smaller cities only one franchise will be given.

The plan is to release two plays a week. By September more than one hundred plays will have been made up and ready for shipment, thus insuring a change of bill twice a week and a continuous service of one year, or fifty-two weeks, so that the moving picture theatres may be booked just as the large theatres of the United States are now represented and booked by the theatrical syndicate.

T. Hayes Hunter will be general stage director for taking the pictures. It is the intention of the company to expand its operations beyond the United States and Canada to all the large cities of the world, for in addition to its plays it is now negotiating with several persons for buying different parts of the world taking pictures for special films, to which Klaw & Erlanger and their associates will have the exclusive right when they are completed. Patrick Casey is to be the general manager of the corporation, with offices at No. 193 Broadway.

N. Y. NEGROES IN RACE

Many Active as Democrats Seek Diplomatic Posts.

New York negro Democrats do not intend to let others of their race out of this city walk away with two or three diplomatic posts in the gift of the Wilson administration for which they are eligible. Several negroes prominent in local Democratic politics have come out as candidates for the diplomatic posts in Haiti and Liberia, that usually go to men of their race. N. D. Marshall and James D. Carr are applicants for the Haitian mission, while J. Frank Wheaton wants the mission to Liberia.

All are lawyers, and Carr is perhaps the best known of the three, having held office in this city since 1899. He was an Assistant District Attorney under Asa Bird Gardiner, and is now a deputy assistant Corporation Counsel. He is a member of the Tammany Hall General Committee, a leader of the United Colored Democracy and a member of the New York County Lawyers' Association. He is the only negro graduate of Rutgers, and took his degree of Bachelor of Laws at Columbia Law School in 1888. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He has the backing of Tammany Hall, and his application for the mission to Haiti is endorsed by city magistrates, Municipal Court judges, Justices of Special Sessions, Judges of General Sessions and Justices of the Supreme Court. His father is the Rev. Dr. William T. Carr, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Concord, N. C.

J. Frank Wheaton, who wants to be sent to Liberia, also has the backing of Tammany Hall, and his oratorical efforts at election times in the many years he has worked for the organization are among the reasons urged in his behalf. Carr's rival, N. D. Marshall, was in Washington yesterday trying to land the Haitian mission. Edward J. Brinkwaite, another member of the United Colored Democracy, was there also. He wants to be Assistant Register of the Treasury.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The programme of the benefit for the Hebrew Infant Asylum at the Liberty Theatre Sunday night has been completed by the addition of "Sam" Bernard, Adelle Ritchie, Harry Gilfill and others.

Willard Loom has been engaged for the part of the House Detective in "The Ghost Breaker" at the Lyceum Theatre.

Frederic McKay has nearly completed the company that will meet Blanche Ring on Monday in this city to begin rehearsals for "When Claudia Smiles."

The dramatic first act of the great dynamite case will be exhibited at the Criterion Theatre, where Robert Hilliard is employing this device in "The Argyle Case."

The Irish Players will give a final repetition of "The Playboy of the Western World" on Friday evening.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY.

Free admission to the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Meeting of the West End Woman's Republican Club, at the Metropolitan.

Lecture on "The Prevention of Disease: Common Skin Conditions," No. 17 West 42nd street, 2:30 p. m.

Public lecture by Dr. Talbot Williams on "Charismatic and the Home," Teachers College, 5 p. m.

Dinner for men of the Brooklyn and Long Island Musical Society, Brooklyn Academy of Music, 6:30 p. m.

Address by Mrs. A. E. Merrill and Mrs. R. C. Thibault, at the 17th Annual Meeting of the National Progressive Club, No. 38 Mary avenue, Brooklyn, 8 p. m.

Meeting of the Aeronautical Society, No. 25 West 25th street, 8:30 p. m.

Mass meeting under the auspices of the Allied Printing and Bookbinding Trade Association of America, Closter Union, evening.

OBITUARY

DR. JOHN S. BILLINGS.

Dr. John S. Billings, a veteran of the Civil War, surgeon, author and ex-librarian of the New York Public Library, died on Tuesday at the New York Hospital. He was a native of Indiana and was sixty-five years old.

At the outset of his career he was graduated from Miami University, where he took a course in the arts. Three years later he had completed the prescribed courses at the Ohio Medical College, at Cincinnati, and at the same time won his master's degree at Miami. Later he was honored with degrees by half a dozen institutions of learning in this country and in Europe. Edinburgh gave him an L.L.D. in 1884. Harvard in 1885. In 1889 Munich made him an honorary M. D., and Oxford awarded him the degree of Civil Law. Three years later he was voted a member of the Royal College of Physicians and the Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland, and he also became an honorary M. D. of the University of Dublin. He received additional degrees of L.L.D. from Yale in 1904 and Johns Hopkins in 1902.

These honors culminated Dr. Billings' service in the Civil War. He enlisted as a surgeon in less than a year after his graduation from the medical college. He was at once appointed an acting assistant surgeon, with the rank of lieutenant. His rise was rapid and continuous. He acted on the board of enrolment and was later made medical inspector of the Army of the Potomac. In the mean time he had been promoted through the various grades to that of captain.

In 1875 he became attached to the surgeon general's office in Washington, and later took charge of the library and the organization of the Veteran Reserve Corps. He was medical adviser to the board of trustees of Johns Hopkins University and vice-president of the National Board of Health. He was also professor of hygiene in the University of Pennsylvania and a frequent lecturer at Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Johns Hopkins. He drew the plans for the Johns Hopkins Hospital. He became director in 1884 of the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden foundations. He resigned just before the library moved to its new quarters at Fifth avenue and 43rd street. Dr. Billings was an author of international reputation.

These honors culminated Dr. Billings' service in the Civil War. He enlisted as a surgeon in less than a year after his graduation from the medical college. He was at once appointed an acting assistant surgeon, with the rank of lieutenant. His rise was rapid and continuous. He acted on the board of enrolment and was later made medical inspector of the Army of the Potomac. In the mean time he had been promoted through the various grades to that of captain.

In 1875 he became attached to the surgeon general's office in Washington, and later took charge of the library and the organization of the Veteran Reserve Corps. He was medical adviser to the board of trustees of Johns Hopkins University and vice-president of the National Board of Health. He was also professor of hygiene in the University of Pennsylvania and a frequent lecturer at Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Johns Hopkins. He drew the plans for the Johns Hopkins Hospital. He became director in 1884 of the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden foundations. He resigned just before the library moved to its new quarters at Fifth avenue and 43rd street. Dr. Billings was an author of international reputation.

Just before her death Mrs. Harlan requested that half of her life insurance be given to the mission board of which she was secretary.

FREDERICK C. M'LEWEE.

Frederick C. McLeewee, inspector general on the staff of former Governor Levi P. Morton during the years 1885 and 1886.

FREDERICK C. M'LEWEE.
Inspector General on the staff of former Governor Levi P. Morton.

He died from apoplexy yesterday afternoon while seated at his desk in his office, No. 29 Church street. Mr. McLeewee, who was fifty-seven years old, made his home at No. 29 Riverside Drive. He leaves a wife and one son.

The fatal attack came while General McLeewee was transacting business at his desk. He fell off his chair, and although Dr. J. J. McDonnell Ryan, who has offices in the building, was immediately called, the general was beyond medical aid.

General McLeewee was general auditor of the Indian Reeling Company, of 17 Battery Place. He was a native of this city and was for many years one of the leading figures in the national guard.

It was during his service as inspector general under former Governor Morton that he was summarily removed from that office for severe criticisms made of superior officers in his official reports. The removal order was later rescinded and high honors conferred on the general.

HARRIET TUBMAN DAVIS.

Harriet Tubman Davis, an ex-slave of pure Ashantee negro blood, and the famous conductor of the "underground railway" for fleeing slaves, died on Monday night at the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. No one knows exactly the woman's age. She believed that she was ninety-eight years old. She died from pneumonia.

She was born in Maryland, and was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y.

She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y.

She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y.

She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y. She was a member of the Harriet Tubman Home for Aged Negroes, at Auburn, N. Y.

Looking him in the eye.

SWORD FOR CROWN PRINCE

Greeks Here to Pay Tribute to Constantine's Valor.

The capitulation of Salonica to Crown Prince Constantine of Greece on November 7, 1912, inspired the editors of the daily

ROBERT FUREY.

Robert Furey, who recently gave $20,000 to St. Mary's Hospital and other Catholic charities, died last night at the Montauk Club in Brooklyn. He was a bachelor, eighty-five years old, and in his younger days was an active worker in the Democratic party. He is credited with having brought his influence to bear upon the Democratic leaders in Manhattan four years ago to accept Mr. Gaynor as the candidate of Tammany Hall for the mayoralty. He amassed a fortune in the contracting business. At one time he held the office of Street Cleaning Commissioner of the City of Brooklyn, and occupied other appointive offices, but was elected to hold office only once, then as a member of the Board of Aldermen.

SAMUEL G. ADAMS.

Samuel G. Adams, sixty-nine years old, lawyer and Civil War veteran, died at Bellevue Hospital last night from cerebral meningitis. Mr. Adams, who lived at No. 42 West 13th street, was brought to the hospital on March 1 and placed in the psychopathic ward for examination. It later developed he was suffering from meningitis, and he was removed to a medical ward, where he died. Mrs. Adams was at her husband's bedside when he died.

HERMAN E. WAGNER.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.)
Nyack, N. Y., March 12.—Herman E. Wagner, treasurer of the village of Grand View, died today in his home in Piermont avenue. Mr. Wagner was sixty-nine years old, and until a few years ago was in the lithographing business in New York City. He was a member of the Tappan Zoo Yacht Club and the Arion Club and was high in Masonic circles.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM J. FOLEY, a minstrel in the company of Primrose and Dockstader, died on Tuesday at his home, No. 322 Corolla street, Brooklyn, aged twenty-six years. Twelve years ago he and his brothers, Thomas, James and John, were heard by Primrose singing in the street. Primrose at once engaged their services for his company.

JAMES HOOKER, a member of the cotton brokerage firm of Paulsen, Linker and Co., of New York, died yesterday at his home in Fanwood, N. J., in his fifty-first year. He was born in London. Four children survive him.

WILLIAM CORBIT SPRUANCE, ex-associate justice of the Delaware Supreme Court, died in Wilmington yesterday. He was United States Attorney for Delaware from 1876 to 1880, and was eighty-two years old.

REUBEN E. SMITH, president of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, is dead at his home in Cleveland. He was born in Connecticut in 1839 and had been with the road since 1855 as paymaster, general manager, vice-president and president.

POETS' NIGHT AT PROCTOR'S

Authors Will Attend to Honor Reformed Versemaker.

Tuesday night at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre has been designated as poets' night, when the leading versemakers in New York and vicinity will gather to pay homage to Edwards Davis, now appearing in "The Kingdom of Destiny," but at one time a rhymester. Among the poets slated to appear are Markham, who was a school teacher in Oakland when Davis was a preacher there.

Others expected to attend are Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Richard Le Gallienne, Alfred Noyes, Roy McCordell and F. P. Adams.

SWORD FOR CROWN PRINCE

Greeks Here to Pay Tribute to Constantine's Valor.

The capitulation of Salonica to Crown Prince Constantine of Greece on November 7, 1912, inspired the editors of the daily

DIED.

Adams, Jane M. Muldoon, Susie E. Carley, Grace C. Boleas, Archibald Chambers, Mary A. Rogers, William E. Jackson, Matthew Schmeidler, Friedrich Cragh, Anthony H. Schmitz, Amelia Graham, Romaine P. Sherman, Janet M. Halsey, Edward W. Wells, Annie M. Hester, Mary Wells, James M. Molitor, Edward W. Wells, H. M.

ADAMS.

ADAMS.—At Orange, N. J., on Tuesday, March 12, 1913, Jane M. Adams, widow of John C. Adams, in her 81st year. Funeral services will be held at her late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 13, on the arrival of the 2:30 train from New York, D. L. & W. Railroad.

CARLEY.

CARLEY.—Grace C., wife of Francis D. Carley, died at her late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral notice hereafter.

CHAMBERS.

CHAMBERS.—At Dover, N. J., on Tuesday, March 12, 1913, Friedrich Cragh, aged 69. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

CLARKSON.

CLARKSON.—On Wednesday, March 12, 1913, at No. 16 West 45th st., Matthew Clarkson, in the 60th year of his age. Funeral services will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

CRAIGH.

CRAIGH.—Suddenly, pneumonia, March 11, 1913, at his late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

GRAHAM.

GRAHAM.—Suddenly, Tuesday evening, March 12, at Pine Lawn, Lakeland, N. Y. Funeral services will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

HALSEY.

HALSEY.—At Bridgehampton, L. I., March 12, 1913, Edward W. Halsey, husband of Mary Halsey. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

HERTER.

HERTER.—At Santa Barbara, Cal., on Sunday morning, March 10, 1913, Mary, widow of Christian Herter and daughter of the late Dr. Archibald and Mary Fresno Miles. Funeral services at Santa Barbara on Thursday morning, the 13th inst., at 10 o'clock.

MOSEFEL.

MOSEFEL.—Suddenly, on the morning of March 12, 1913, at his late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

MULDOON.

MULDOON.—On Tuesday, March 12, 1913, at his late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

ROBBIE.

ROBBIE.—At Lindhurst, Tarrytown, N. Y., Archibald Robbie, in his 45th year. Notice of funeral hereafter.

ROGERS.

ROGERS.—After a brief illness, on Monday evening, March 12, 1913, William Evans Rogers, aged 57, at his late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

SCHNEIDER.

SCHNEIDER.—Suddenly, on the morning of March 12, 1913, at his late residence, No. 347 North Road, Mountain Station, Thursday afternoon, March 12, 1913. Funeral services at St. Bartholomew's Church, Saturday morning, March 15, at 10 o'clock.

SCHULTZ.

SCHULTZ.—On Wednesday, March 12, 1913, Amelia, sister of John F. Schultz, deceased. Funeral services at her late residence, No. 125 Conelia st., Boston, N. J., on Friday, March 13, at 2 p. m. Interment at St. John's Cemetery, New York City.